U.S. Army PD TIS Nominees Receive 2012 SOLE Award

Alexandria, Va., October 25, 2012 – The U.S. Army Product Director for Transportation Information Systems (PD TIS) is pleased to announce that three PD TIS nominees received a 2012 International Society of Logistics Engineers (SOLE) award. Mrs. Johanna Curry, Mr. Terrence McRae, and Mr. Joel Lewerenz all received a SOLE award for their accomplishments in the respective logistics specialty categories.

Mrs. Curry was cited for playing a critical role in preparing deploying soldiers for their missions in Southwest Asia (SWA). Mr. McRae was recognized for assisting the Transportation Coordinators' – Automated Information for Movements System II (TC-AIMS II) program reach Full Operational Capability (FOC) and leading PD TIS' Life Cycle Replacement (LCR) mission. Lastly, Mr. Lewerenz was acknowledged for supporting TC-AIMS II, enabling PD TIS to provide 24/7 customer support to its Outside the Continental United States (OCONUS) user community.

"We are very proud of Johanna, Terrence, and Joel for their contributions and dedication to the Army logistics community," stated Douglas Haskin, Deputy PD TIS. "They are all very deserving of this honorable award."

SOLE is a non-profit international professional society composed of individuals organized to enhance the art and science of logistics technology, education, and management. PD TIS team members have received ten SOLE awards since 2008.
